Adequate security

In designing the security system of the Data Controller, it took into account the state of science and technology, the nature, scope, circumstances, purposes of the data processing, and the varying probability and severity of the risk to the rights and freedoms of natural persons.
The Data Controller, together with the server operators, shall ensure the security of the data by technical, organisational and organisational measures that provide a level of protection appropriate to the risks associated with the processing. The data shall be protected against unauthorised access, alteration, disclosure, transmission, disclosure, erasure or destruction and against accidental destruction or accidental damage.
In order to ensure the security of personal data stored on the computers or network of the Data Controller, the data can only be accessed with a valid, personal, identifiable authorisation, at least with a user name and password, and the Data Controller will regularly ensure that passwords are changed.

What do Data Subject's Rights?

We welcome your questions and requests regarding the processing of your personal data by post:

Kulturális Alapítvány a Textilművészetért /MKISZ/
1364 Budapest, Pf. 51.
by e-mail: textil.kuratorium@gmail.com

Data subjects may exercise the following rights throughout the processing:

Right of access by the data subject
The data subject shall have the right to obtain from the controller confirmation as to whether or not personal data concerning him or her are being processed, and, where that is the case, access to the personal data, and request an electronic copy.

Right to rectification
The data subject may request the rectification of his or her personal data.

Right to erasure ('right to be forgotten')
The Data Controller eras the personal data if its processing is illegal, the data subject requests it, the processed data is incomplete or incorrect - and this condition cannot be legally remedied - provided the deletion is not excluded by law, the purpose of data processing is terminated or expired, it was ordered by a court or the National Data Protection and Freedom of Information Authority.

Right to restriction of personal data
Where appropriate, the data subject may request the restriction of processing pending the outcome of their request.
For example, if you object to processing based on legitimate interests or question the accuracy of the data processed.

Objection to the processing of personal data

The data subject may object to processing based on legitimate interest.

In this case, the processing shall cease, except where the processing is justified by compelling legitimate grounds which override the rights of the data subject or where the processing is necessary for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims.

Data portability

For processing based on the consent of the data subject or the performance of a contract, the data subject has the right to data portability. On this basis, the data subject is entitled to receive personal data concerning him or her which he or she has provided to a controller in a structured, commonly used, machine-readable format and to transmit these data to another controller without hindrance from the controller to which he or she has provided the personal data. You may also request the transfer of your personal data to another controller. However, the exercise of this right must not adversely affect the rights and freedoms of others.

Automated decision-making and profiling

The data subject has specific rights in the case of automated decision-making or profiling. The data subject shall have the right not to be subject to a decision based solely on automated processing, including profiling, which produces legal effects concerning him or her or similarly significantly affects him or her.

Procedure of the Data Controller

The controller shall, without undue delay and at the latest within one month of receipt of the request, inform the data subject of the measures taken or the reasons for non-action.

If the application is complex, the deadline may be extended by a further two months. Information and action are free of charge, except for clearly unfounded or excessive requests. Copies of the personal data processed will be free of charge in the first case, and we will charge a fee equal to our costs for any further copies.
